Introduction from the ILDS President

On behalf of the Board of Directors, I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your interest in the International League of Dermatological Societies (ILDS).

The ILDS is a unique umbrella organisation for professional dermatology member organisations of all sizes that has shaped international dermatology for more than 135 years. Mainly known for the World Congress of Dermatology, one of the largest dermatology meetings in the world, the ILDS undertakes many other projects and programmes to promote the learning and sharing of knowledge around the world. We foster partnerships and networks to facilitate the development of innovative ideas, knowledge transfer and understanding between groups and individuals with shared as well as different experiences. These connections provide opportunities to raise awareness of the cross-cutting nature of skin health and to increase the profile of dermatology globally.

We are proud to be the only dermatological organisation with 'official relations' with the World Health Organization, allowing us to ensure that dermatology and skin health is championed at the highest level to ensure its inclusion in global health policy.

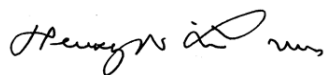

ILDS Members play an important role in and are the heart of our Society. ILDS' successes are only achievable through our collaborative community ensuring the ILDS is relevant and knowledgeable of the dermatological challenges and opportunities faced and how we can improve the skin health of people around the world.

If you are part of a dermatological member society who is not already an ILDS Member, please do consider joining our community. There are many benefits which you can read about in this document and we really can only make a difference with your input.

Stay informed - we encourage you to keep up to date with all the latest ILDS news. Sign up to our newsletter and follow @ILDSDerm on social media channels to be the first to hear the latest developments and opportunities with ILDS and global dermatology.

Sincere thanks again for your interest in the ILDS. We hope to work alongside you in the future as we all work towards our joint goal of #SkinHealth4theWorld.

With warm personal greetings

1. The ILDS: Who we are and what we do

Who we are

The ILDS is a unique umbrella organisation for professional dermatology member organisations of all sizes. We represent dermatology at the highest level through our 'official relations' status with the World Health Organization (WHO), championing dermatology and skin health to ensure its inclusion in global health policy.

Our Vision

To attain the best possible skin health for all people around the world.

Our Mission

To increase awareness, cooperation and communication within the global dermatology community to promote high quality education, clinical care, research and innovation that will improve skin health globally.

Our core values

Whilst the ILDS is well known as the organiser of the World Congress of Dermatology (WCD), one of the largest dermatology events in the world, it also contributes to the improvement of global dermatological services through a wide range of projects, programmes, and partnerships, all of which align to the ILDS' core values:

The ILDS provides leadership and support through global initiatives, projects and policies to help people affected by skin disease.

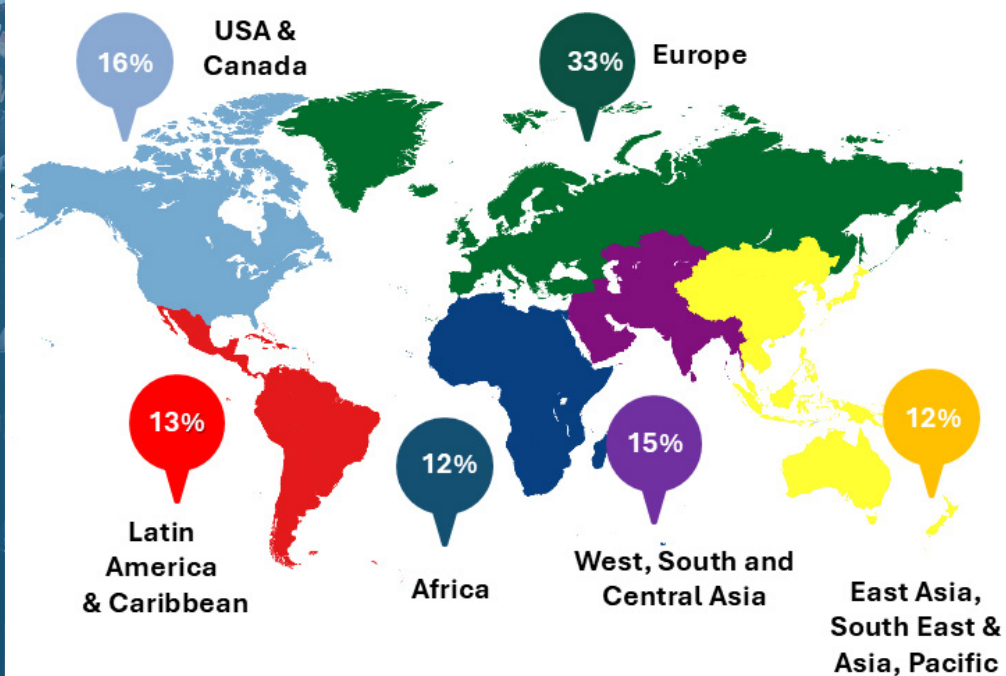

We work on many international projects, programmes, partnerships, and networks to improve skin health around the world. From our annual grant programmes and the activities of our Committees and Working Groups, to the Community Skin Health (CSH) Journal and developing guidelines with the World Health Organization (WHO), our efforts continue to expand and make a global impact.

The ILDS is a global organisation, raising dermatology issues at the highest level. We work closely with many other groups, including the World Health Organization (WHO). These connections provide opportunities to raise awareness of the cross-cutting nature of skin health and to increase the profile of dermatology globally.

Our Members

Our Members play an important role in the ILDS. From delivering treatment and training through our programmes, to helping develop our strategic objectives, ILDS Members are at the heart of our Society.

ILDS Membership brings together national, regional and international dermatological societies from around the world to create a unique community working towards the ILDS' vision of 'Skin Health for the World'.

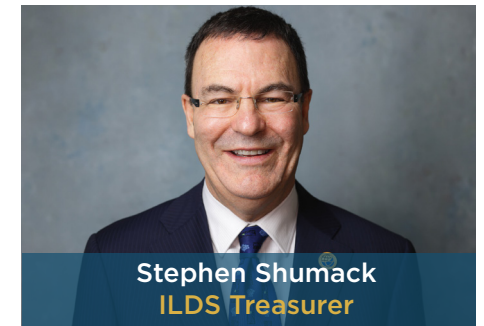

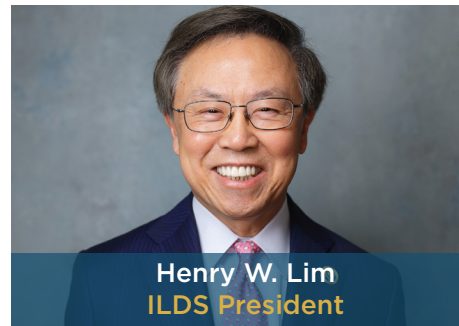

ILDS Board of Directors

The ILDS Board of Directors are elected by the ILDS Members and comprise of International and Regional Directors to ensure ILDS is representative of dermatology around the world. They ensure the work of the ILDS is carried out according to our vision and mission.

The 2023 - 2027 ILDS Board comprises of 20 Directors with three officers; President, Secretary-General and Treasurer. The Board meet regularly throughout the year to oversee ILDS programmes and activities.

ILDS Secretariat

The ILDS Secretariat are the administrative staff who are responsible for the day to day running of the ILDS. Overseen by Arpita Bhose, Chief Executive Officer, the Secretariat is comprised of a dedicated team to support all aspects of the ILDS and its projects and programmes.

Should you wish to contact a member of the Secretariat, please contact: info@ilds.org

What we do

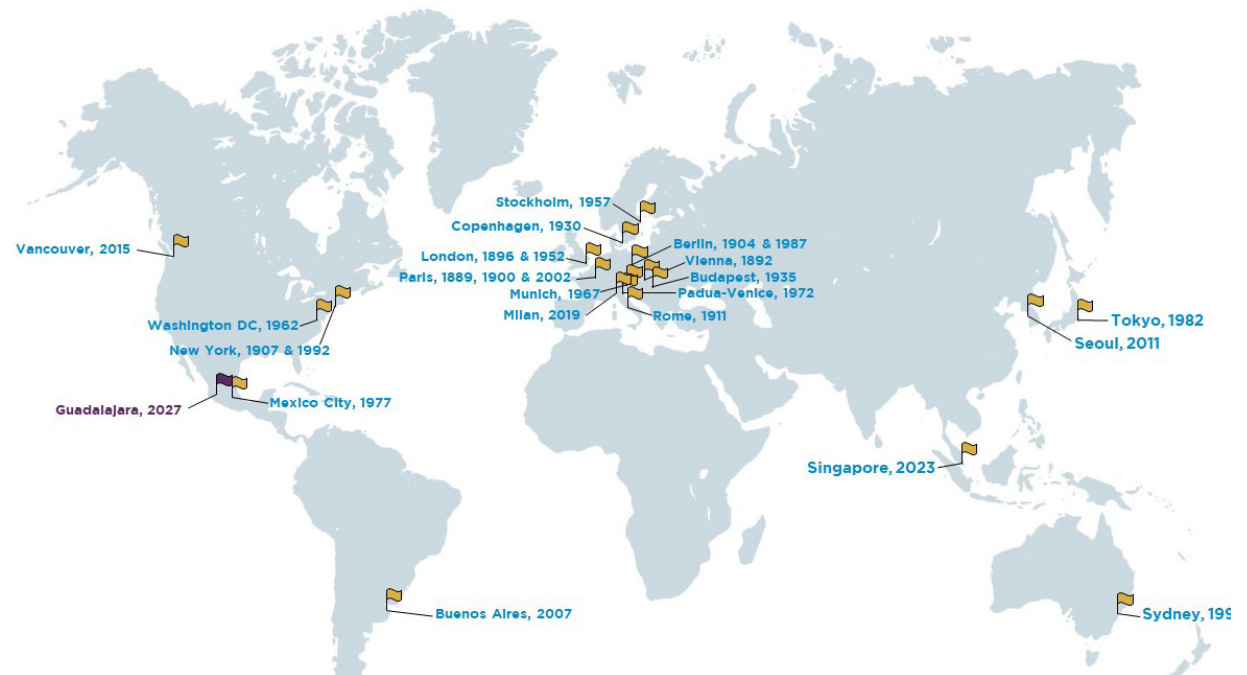

The World Congress of Dermatology

Organised by the ILDS, the World Congress of Dermatology (WCD) is one of the largest dermatology meetings in the world. The event enables specialists to share their knowledge, research results and clinical experiences, and build their professional networks.

The first WCD was held in Paris in 1889 and is held every four years (where possible). Over the past 135 years, the WCD has brought together experts and relevant organisations and raised the importance of skin diseases.

ILDS Member Societies can bid to host the WCD with the location chosen through a competitive bidding process and a vote by ILDS Members at the ILDS Annual General Meeting (AGM).

Locations of the World Congress of Dermatology 1889 to 2027

World Congress of Dermatology 2027

21 to 26 June 2027

Guadalajara, Mexico

Jointly hosted by the Mexican Academy of Dermatology, the Mexican Society of Dermatology, the Mexican Society of Cosmetic Dermatology & Laser and the Mexican Society of Dermatologic Surgery & Oncology, planning is now well underway for the next WCD in 2027.

Visit the WCD2027 website for the latest news and updates and we hope to see you in Guadalajara!

Our official relations with the World Health Organization

“The role that ILDS plays in its partnership with the World Health Organization is simply crucial”

Dr. José Antonio Ruiz Postigo, MD, PhD,
World Health Organization (WHO)

The ILDS is the only dermatological organisation in official relations with the World Health Organization (WHO), enabling us to raise multiple dermatological issues at the highest level.

The ILDS visits the WHO-HQ in Geneva annually for meetings with the WHO units/departments we collaborate with. These include:

- International Classification of Diseases
- Neglected Tropical Diseases
- Ageing and Life Course
- Essential Medicines
- Non-Communicable Diseases
- Emerging Infections.
- Occupational Health

The ILDS contributes to its work and priorities by:

- continuing refinement of the ICD-11 MMS and Dermatology Specialty classifications in relation to skin and related diseases;
- providing assistance with revisions to list of skin condition related essential medicines; and
- improving recognition of NTDs by front-line healthcare workers using skin signs of disease;
- providing technical assistance on ultraviolet radiation-induced skin disease.

International Foundation of Dermatology

International Foundation for Dermatology

The International Foundation for Dermatology (IFD) was created in 1987 by the ILDS to improve skin health in areas of low resource. It supports projects all over the world including Africa, Asia Pacific and South America. The IFD is critical to helping ILDS achieve its goal of #SkinHealth4theWorld.

In 2022 alone, the IFD distributed $ 500,000 in funding and worked with a global network of partners to support skin health initiatives in low-resource areas worldwide that are available, accessible and effective for all patients, regardless of ethnicity, disability or social background. Key projects include the Regional Dermatology Training Centre in Tanzania and the Community Skin Health journal, as well as projects in Argentina, Cambodia and Mexico to name a few.

Together with our Members, Partners and project leaders, we work to deliver projects that have a meaningful impact on the lives of dermatology patients around the world, particularly those in under-served communities”

Dr Claire Fuller
IFD Chair

Our projects and programmes

The aim of the GPEC programme is to improve the standard of dermatological education and care worldwide, through facilitating mutual learning partnerships between organisations. We seek to pair up dermatology departments to establish bi-directional knowledge exchange, furthering ILDS' vision to attain the best possible skin health for all people around the world.

We work closely with the World Health Organization (WHO) and other partners to support the prevention and control of NCDs. Building on the success of the Global Psoriasis Atlas which was established in 2017 in response to the WHO Global Report on Psoriasis (2016), ILDS is working with a range of stakeholders to develop other Atlases to promote access to skin health across a range of dermatological conditions, including the Global Atopic Dermatitis Atlas launched in 2022.

Skin NTDs continue to have a low profile and status in public health priorities. To help address this, Neglected Tropical Diseases NGO Network (NNN) members established the Skin NTD Cross-Cutting Group to ensure that these neglected diseases receive adequate attention and financial support within the WHO NTD Roadmap 2021-2030. The International Foundation for Dermatology (IFD) is a member of the NNNSCCG and also provides operational support to the Group. IFD Chair, Dr Claire Fuller, is the NNNSCCG Chair.

The ILDS leads the Dermatology Topic Advisory Group (TAG) for the 11th revision of the ICD. The ILDS has been involved in the revision since 2008 when we were invited to be the ICD-11 TAG leader. Over the last decade, the TAG has overseen the revision of the 'Diseases of the Skin' chapter as well as many dermatologically relevant diseases located in other chapters of ICD. There are now over 2,000 different defined skin disorders that have been characterised as part of the ICD-11 development process.

Through the IFD, the ILDS provides two types of grants programmes: DermLink and DermImpact. DermLink is an annual grants programme that provides support for ILDS Members to undertake initiatives that help patients with skin disease in underserved parts of the world. DermImpact Grants Programme provides support for projects that are looking to build capacity in underserved regions/communities to improve care and services for patients with skin diseases.

The ILDS World Skin Summit brings the leaders of our Member and Partner organisations together to discuss the challenges they face. The Summit provides an opportunity for leaders to share experiences and develop strategies to improve skin health at local, national, regional and global levels.

World Skin Health Day is a joint project of the International League of Dermatological Societies (ILDS) and the International Society of Dermatology (ISD). Since 2013, World Skin Health Day has been taking place across the world to raise awareness of and treat a diverse range of skin conditions. Taking part in World Skin Health Day helps to raise awareness about the wide-ranging impact of skin disease, as well as supporting people needing treatment in their local communities.

The Community Skin Health Journal (CSH) is the official Journal of the IFD (formerly known as the Community Dermatology Journal). It is a dermatology resource for healthcare workers in under-served areas and it provides up to date, relevant information on the diagnosis and treatment of skin disease. It is a useful resource for educating health workers and the populations they serve and for keeping in touch with dermatology services in low-resource areas.

ILDS Members have the opportunity to nominate members who have made an outstanding contribution to global dermatology for one of our prestigious ILDS Awards. The Certificate of Appreciation (COA) is awarded annually in either international leadership or humanitarian dermatology. Awarded bi-annually, the Young Dermatologist International Achievement (YDIA) Awards recognises recently qualified dermatologists making outstanding contributions, particularly for patients in under-served areas of the world.

In 1990, the Regional Dermatology Training Centre \(RDTC\) in Moshi, Tanzania, was founded as a joint enterprise between the ILDS and the Tanzanian Ministry of Health, Kilimanjaro Christian Medical Centre. The RDTC serves as a supra-regional training, research and clinical centre providing care to dermatological patients and training to medical Assistants and Clinical Officers. Following the success of the RDTC, the ILDS has recently committed funds to advance dermatology training for the Pacific Island Nations through the support of the Pacific Dermatology Training Centre \(PDTC\) at Tamavua Twomey Hospital in Suva, Fiji.

The Grand Challenges in Global Skin Health initiative addresses the significant burden of skin diseases worldwide focussing on research, education, clinical application, and support at local, national and international levels. This initiative aims to improve the lives of individuals affected by skin disorders through targeted actions, multidisciplinary collaboration and the formation of international alliances to address specific issues. Currently, the ILDS are involved in the following projects: Global Psoriasis Atlas; Global Atopic Dermatitis Atlas; Global Hidradenitis Suppurativa Atlas; Global Vitiligo Atlas and Chronic Prurigo.

The ILDS is continuously finding new ways to make a difference to the global community through dermatology so please do check our website regularly for news of new projects and ways to get involved.

Partnerships and Networks

The theme for our 2020-2023 Strategy, Global Partnerships for Skin Health, recognised our increasingly interconnected world where health issues cross borders and that we can only achieve our vision of 'Skin Health for the World' by working with others.

The partnerships that we foster through our activities lead to improvements in the quality and availability of skin health resources and services worldwide. Strengthening partnerships and networks facilitates the development of innovative ideas, knowledge transfer and understanding between groups and individuals with shared as well as different experiences. These connections provide opportunities to raise awareness of the cross-cutting nature of skin health and to increase the profile of dermatology globally.

The ILDS is committed to the inclusion of the patient voice in our work and we collaborate with patients' organisations across a range of areas. The ILDS Patients' Organisations Committee was set up in 2020 to ensure that the patients' voice is considered in ILDS activities and to foster dialogue and partnerships between the ILDS, its Members, and patients' organisations to improve access to dermatological patient-centred healthcare worldwide.

Founded by Dr Esther Freeman and Dr Claire Fuller in 2018, the GLODERM's mission is to improve 'Skin Health for Everyone, Everywhere' by connecting dermatologists and trainees who are dedicated to improving skin health for all in resource-limited communities, locally and globally. With multiple activities and programmes, including the GLODERM Mentorship Programme, training the next generation of global health dermatology leaders, and a free Educational Webinar Series.

The ILDS and the International Alliance of Dermatology Patient Organizations (also known as GlobalSkin) are working together to produce a series of webinars across a range of dermatological issues bringing together dermatologists and patient leaders in a forum to share experiences and information.

Founded in 2012 with the support of the ILDS and other partners, the International Alliance for the Control of Scabies (IACS) is a global network of researchers, clinicians and public health experts committed to the control of human scabies and the promotion of health and well-being of all those living in affected communities.

The ILDS is proud to be a founding partner of the World Skin Health Coalition.

This Coalition brings together a multi-stakeholder group of like-minded organisations focused on putting medical dermatology on the global health agenda. It will advocate to the World Health Organization (WHO) and other decision makers globally to elevate the healthcare prioritisation of dermatological diseases.

The Migrant Health Dermatology Working Group (MHDWG) of the IFD brings together global specialists to discuss skin health issues facing migrants and refugees, developing and sharing best practice as advocates for improved skin health provision for migrants, refugees and internally displaced people (IDPs).

The ILDS' ongoing commitment to improving skin health around the world continues to provide many opportunities to expand our network with new collaborations and partnerships.

Please check the ILDS website regularly for updates.

Classes of membership

Member Society

For the main/primary national society of dermatology within each country working within the field of dermatology - representing members from its own (one) country (such as AAD or SDeMaST). In countries where there is more than one national society, proof may be required that there is little/no overlap of members. 50% + 1 (majority) of its members MUST be dermatologists and the Society MUST have been established/ registered for more than 4 years.

Votes: Allocated based on number of fee-paying members (maximum of 10 votes per Member Society) as per ILDS By-Laws.

Affiliated Society

For international or regional dermatological societies of dermatology or national specialist societies working within the field of dermatology - representing dermatologists internationally or regionally (such as EADV, CILAD etc) OR national specialist societies of dermatology (such as the lymphoma, photodermatology or MOHS for example). 50% + 1 (majority) of its members MUST be dermatologists and the Society MUST have been established/ registered for more than 4 years.

Votes: Entitled to one vote as per ILDS By-Laws.

Observer Society

For societies within the field of dermatology that are not yet eligible to become a Member Society or Affiliated Society i.e.. those who meet the criteria but are under 4 years old. Also includes those who have applied for Member / Affiliated Society Membership and have been approved in the year preceding a World Congress of Dermatology (category changes following the WCD year).

Votes: Not entitled to vote as per ILDS By-Laws.

Membership benefits

ILDS membership fees contribute to the work of the ILDS and our foundation, the International Foundation of Dermatology, however being an ILDS Member also provides many benefits and opportunities for your Society and your members.

We are constantly seeking to improve and develop further programmes, projects and activities to support you in practice and champion the role of dermatologists globally.

Here you can find just some of the current benefits*, depending on class of membership.

NOTES

*This list is not exhaustive and benefits may be amended from time to time. All benefits are subject to your membership being in good standing.

ILDS Awards

The ILDS, as part of its work in global dermatology, aims to recognise dermatologists and others in the field of dermatological care who have made an outstanding contribution to improving the experience for people with skin diseases.

One of the benefits of ILDS membership is the opportunity for societies to nominate their members (subject to eligibility) for one of our prestigious ILDS Awards - the Certificate of Appreciation (COA) or the Young Dermatologist International Achievement (YDIA) Award - providing recipients with global recognition for their work..

Certificate of Appreciation

The ILDS Certificate of Appreciation is awarded annually and aims to recognise dermatologists and others in the field of dermatological care who have made an outstanding contribution in either International Leadership or Humanitarian Dermatology.

Eligible ILDS Members may nominate up to 2 people in total from their society - these can be two nominations in one category or one nomination in each category.

Young Dermatologist International Achievement (YDIA) Award

The YDIA Award is awarded biennially, to coincide with the World Congress of Dermatology (WCD) and the ILDS World Skin Summit (WSS), to recognise recently qualified dermatologists who have made an outstanding contribution to international dermatology, particularly for patients in under-served areas of the world.

The Award is presented to one individual from each of the six ILDS Regions and recipients are invited to attend the WCD/WSS. The Awards are presented by the ILDS President.

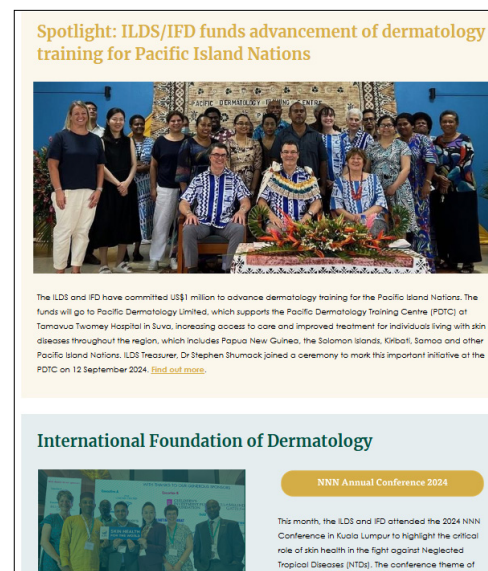

ILDS Newsletter

The ILDS Newsletter is sent on a quarterly basis and contains all the latest news and information regarding ILDS activities. It also includes opportunities to get involved, updates on IFD work and our global advocacy work with the WHO, details on WCD progress, webinars and events (including ILDS Member events*).

Following the Board decision, official notification of the outcome of applications shall be sent within five (5) Working Days.

9. Support our work

International Foundation
for Dermatology

Donate

Support the work of the ILDS and IFD

Donating to the ILDS and the IFD can be an incredibly meaningful way to make a real difference in the lives of people who suffer from skin diseases. Skin diseases affect millions of people around the world, causing physical discomfort, emotional distress, and social stigma.

By donating, you can help us to fund projects and programmes designed to promote high quality education, clinical care, research and innovation within the global dermatology community.

Your donation, no matter how small, can help make a real impact on the lives of people who suffer from skin diseases, and help to advance the field of dermatology for generations to come. You can even choose the project/programme you would like your donation to go to via our donation form.

All donors get a special mention in our annual thank you shared on our website and on social media enhancing your Society's global profile.

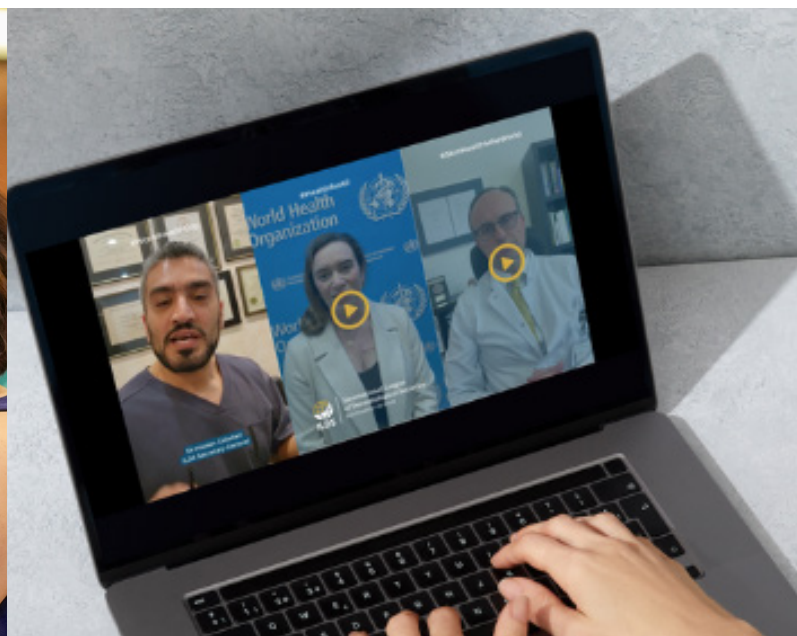

Please consider supporting the work of the ILDS and the IFD.

10. Connect with us

Social media is a valuable tool for ILDS to connect with members and dermatology professionals worldwide. By following ILDS, you gain instant access to global dermatology news, updates, and networking opportunities.
